

Fall 2004

Honors Seminar

Register Now!

3 Credits!

HONR 219L – Working with Computers
to Solve Real World Problems:
Science & the Computer Revolution
Tuesdays and Thursdays, 2:00 – 3:15 PM

Instructor:

Phone:

E-mail:

Room:

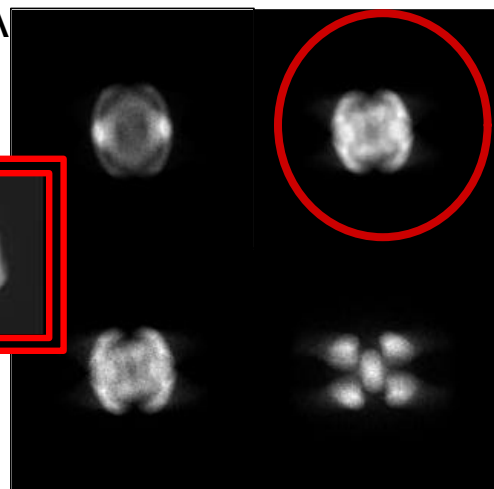

Dr. Rami A. Kishek

301-405-5012

ramiak@ebte.umd.edu

TBA

CORE APPROVED

At the intersection of science and computers, a new field is rapidly changing the world.

The application of computers to solve scientific problems is one of the most interesting and useful modern endeavors.

HONR219L will introduce some of the basic concepts of scientific computing, using examples from a wide array of disciplines, such as business, social sciences, engineering, physical and biological sciences.